Hanover, February 7. N. S. The Troops of his Electoral Highneſs that were recalled ſome time ago from the Low Countries, have received Orders to halt near Deventer, that they may be in a readineſs either to return into Flanders, or to march towards the Elbe, as Occaſion ſhall require. Major-General Hamerſteim, who was ſent by this Court to inform himſelf whether Count Steinbock had power to treat of Peace, came back two Days ago with this Anſwer, That the Count was ready to enter into a Treaty of Peace upon the Foot of that of Travendahl; and that if in the Courſe of the Negotiation, any new Matter ſhould ariſe, which he was not inſtructed to determine, the Points in diſpute ſhould be left undecided till the King of Sweden's return. Letters of the ſecond from the Confederate Army in Holſtein bring Advice, that the Swedes had aſſembled their Forces at Seiſted, and entrenched themſelves there, having but a ſmall Extent of Country to furniſh them with Subſiſtance, and being preſs'd on all ſides by the Troops of the Confederates. Upon their being denied Entrance into Tonningen, they march'd to Frederickſtadt, but could not fortifie it for want of the neceſſary Materials. The ſame Advices add, that the King of Denmark was gone from Fredericia to the Czar's Army, where it was reſolved in a Council of War to attack the Swedes.

Hamburgh, February 10. N. S. It was given out here for ſome time, that General Stackelberg had abandoned Frederickſtadt, but we are now aſſured of the contrary, and have received further Advice, that General Bauditz, who was to command the Attack of that Place, could not purſue his Deſign, by reaſon of the Thaw, which had made the Roads impaſſable; and beſides the Swedes had cut down a Bank, and laid the Country about that Town under Water. The General having informed the Czar and the King of Denmark of this, the former went thither in Perſon, and having found it impoſſible to approach the Town, he ordered a Retreat. On the ſixth a Council of War was held in Preſence of their Majeſty's, to conſider of ſome way to reduce that Place, which is of great Importance to the Allies: And it was reſolved, that the Army ſhould march to Bredſtandt, and from thence to Huſum, in order to attack Frederickſtadt on that ſide. The next Day they decamped, and it is thought they are now arrived at Huſum. In the mean time Count Sponeck with Fifteen hundred Men is ordered to watch the Motions of General Steinbock, and to cut down the Banks of Ditmarſe, in caſe he attempts to paſs the Eyder on that ſide.
